

90-Day Plan of Action Breakdown

How our proven process translates into focused quarterly sprints—and what that means for your Plan of Action.

Our Proven Process — 90-Day Sprints

While the early stages of our partnership focused on establishing a strong foundation, the cyclical portion of the framework reflects our ongoing quarterly sprints, which are presented to you as a 90-Day Plan of Action.

Your 90-Day Plan of Action outlines the strategic priorities, initiatives, and collaboration points for the upcoming months. It translates high-level goals into focused, intentional workstreams across SEO, GEO, content, PR, technical optimization, and ads (if applicable).

Why Ongoing Optimization Matters

Marketing performance improves through consistent, focused refinement. Every 90-days, we review performance data, identify trends, and make strategic adjustments based on what's working, what's changed, and where opportunities exist. This quarterly cadence allows us to stay proactive rather than reactive. It also ensures your strategy evolves alongside search behavior, competition, and your firm's goals.

How This Connects to Your 90-Day Plan of Action

Your 90-Day Plan of Action is a snapshot of one full sprint within this cycle. It translates the broader process shown above into a clear, focused plan for the upcoming quarter, so everyone is aligned on priorities and expectations.

Specifically, your Plan of Action outlines:

- What we're prioritizing this quarter based on performance trends, opportunities, and your firm's goals
- Which initiatives fall within each focus area (SEO, GEO, content, PR, technical optimization, and ads, if applicable).
- Why these initiatives were selected and how they support visibility, authority, and lead generation
- Where collaboration is needed, such as approvals, content input, or strategic feedback
- How progress will be evaluated, including the signals and metrics we'll review during check-ins and at quarter's end

Throughout the 90 days, this plan serves as a shared reference point, guiding execution, informing conversations, and helping us stay focused on what will drive the most meaningful impact. Insights from the concluding sprint directly inform the next Plan of Action, ensuring momentum continues, and strategy evolves intentionally rather than reactively.
